› The Luxury Inca Trail

4 days / 3 nights

The Luxury Inca Trail to Machu Picchu is one of the most amazing experiences you can undertake. The Famous Inka trail was a royal route to Machu Picchu used by the Inka (or Emperor/King) in the 15th century. There are different sites between Ollantaytambo Inca City and Machu Picchu Inca City where one can note the variety in architectural resources that give rationality, importance and mysticism to the Royal Road. It did not have a commercial use; there were other, more simple, trails to transport products, llamas and people to Machu Picchu. The purpose of the Inka Trail to Machupicchu was religious and ceremonial that included rituals to honor the mountains and peaks of the route, like Veronica mountain or Wakaywilka mountain.

Experience this one-of-a-kind combination of adventure, challenge, natural beauty, history, and glamour.

Today begins your of a lifetime adventure. We will pick you up from your hotel in our private van very early in the morning at 5:30 am. You will be transferred to the Sacred Valley of the Inkas, where our van going to kilometer 82, where the Classic Inca Trail begins. On the way, we stop for breakfast in Ollantaytambo at 6:30-7 am to load up on energy for our start of the trail. (Breakfast is not included). Upon arrival at kilometer 82 at 11:30am, we will have some time to organize ourselves, At the Inka Trail first control point be ready to show your entrance tickets, passports and (if paying a student rate) your student card.

At the start of the trail (2,720m/8,923ft) we cross the Vilcanota River and follow its route to the right. The first day is relatively easy, a warm-up along the Inka flat terrain. There are great views of the "Huillca Raccay", the vast and incredible Inka site of Llactapata, (officially called 'Patallacta'), and the beautiful snow-capped peak of 'W'akay Willca' (5,860m/19,225ft) known in books as Veronica. Our first campsite is in Wayllabamba (3,000m/9,842ft) in the temperate green valley with the same name. Temperatures at night are around 5°C depending on the month.

During the day, we will enjoy spectacular views of the snow-capped mountains Veronica, (5,860m/19,337ft), the lush green valley around us and a myriad of flora and fauna.

After waking up at 5 to 5:30am and enjoying a hot breakfast, we start a steep ascent towards the highest pass, abra de Warmihuañusca or 'Dead Woman's Pass' at 4,200m/13,779ft. On this day, you will feel a real sense of achievement upon reaching the top! After a well-deserved rest, we begin the descent to where we stop for lunch, which is located at Pacaymayu (3,550m/11,646ft).

On our way up to the pass, we will be able to see an array of hummingbirds and a combination of other species of bird life. There will be plenty of time to appreciate the incredible variety of native plants and the 'Polylepis' or Q'ueuña trees which grow in the astonishing cloud forest located at 3,650m/11,972ft! After lunch, begins the second two-hour steep climb to Runkuraqay pass (almost 4,000m/13,123ft). We arrive at our campsite by 5:00 pm. Temperatures at this campsite are around 4°C during the night.

This is the most impressive day so far; keep this in mind as you ascend on day three! We wake up for breakfast at 6 am and start the day with a gentle climb to visit the archaeological site of 'Phuyupatamarca' (meaning 'Town in the Clouds'). Here we reach the third highest point on the Inka trail (3,680 m / 12,073 ft). The views of the mountains, canyons and surrounding areas are spectacular! The Inca site of 'Phuyupatamarca', is located a few minutes' walk from the third pass.

After visiting this site, we continue walking down 3000 stairs through the cloud forest to the impressive terraces of Intipata. After taking some time to visit this site, we continue until we arrive at our third campsite Wiñay Wayna. (2,680m/8,792ft). Today, we will only walk about 4 to 5 hours. We arrive at camp by lunchtime! Temperatures during the night are about 12° C. A short walk from our campsite is the famous Incan site of 'Wiñay Wayna' ('Forever Young'). Even if you are feeling tired after your day's trek, it's a moment you cannot miss, the most impressive site on the Inca trail.

At around 4:00 am it's time to wake up, have breakfast and start day 4 on the Inka trail to get to Machu Picchu on time. This is the final part of your journey, arriving by 6:00am to reach Inti Punku or The Sun Gate. At that point, the majestic Machu Picchu Citadel is in front of us with its intense beauty – an incredible sight for all to see. The reality of what the Inca people must have encountered on their taxing journey to this expansive temple of Machu Picchu. At this point, we walk downhill towards the Machu Picchu Citadel. (2400m/7872 ft.) After an hour walk, we enter the citadel from the top through the "House of the Guardians". here we will have a short explanation of the site and you will have a great chance to take a unique picture in one of the seven wonders then we will continue to reach the platform. From there we proceed to the control point where we register and leave our belongings. Your professional guide will direct you throughout the astounding archaeological site and its main streets. You can wander around the town squares as well as climb the intricately carved stairways made from stone. Machu Picchu is considered as the world's spiritual center by esoteric wisdom. Once the guided tour is over, you will have free time to explore the site on your own.

You will also have time to indulge in a few of the following activities on your own if you choose (not included in the price)

- Other optional activities in Aguas Calientes include a visit to the new local museum or bathe in the hot springs.

Back to Cusco: You will descend to Aguas Calientes by Consettur bus and later board Vistadome Observatory Train to the Ollantaytambo Train Station. In Ollantaytambo Train station you will meet our private van and be transferred to your hotel in Cusco.
